The professional judges who wer there assisting Cousin Eleanor choose her performers were: Watter Woolf who has a leading in "The Lady star in "Blossom Time," and Eddie Dowling, that very, very funny anan in "Sally, Irene and Mary." The stage of the Casino seemed mighty

They all said mighty nice thing about Kiddie Klub performers and admitted it was difficult to say write members should be shown at the Bug Show, but no matter which ones per formed they wanted to be out from at the Kiddie Klub's Christmas party

Kiddle Klub members are certainly exceptional children. The tiniest total inging-well, more than one Kiddie Klub member will be famous Broadway one of these bright days.

For instance, there's Jerome Back er, fourteen years old, who sans "Over the Hill to the Poor House. He has a voice of almost mature weetness and has the gestures of an experienced actor. Jeronie knows is talent and be intends going on the ofendonal stage when he is a little

Then came the Coffey twins, little girls of ten. They made their debut as Kiddle Klub performers seven year hen have appeared professionally wit: one might never wade through the ocean waves, and lots of other the beach without a girl?

Emily Shiels, eleven years old anced, and right in the middle of it Cousin Eleanor frowned very deeply Everybody wondered why, because Emily was doing so well. Then it was learned that Emily had falled to smile Her pretty little face was creased with the most horrible expression of de ermination; so that one imagined she was climbing up the side of a difficult hill, determined to reach the top or die in the attempt. When Emily eeded the warning and smiled, he lance seemed much lighter and pret-

Let this be a warning to all Kiddle Klub actors and actresses. Smile while ou do your stuff! Let the audience know you are happy to be up there on he stage acting for them. All the ag dancers and performers smile while they work. Do as they do.

Dorothy Blanchard, twelve years id, a pretty, graceful girl, did he once with steps as light as a feather ousin Eleanor did not have to frown for a smile.
